GOOD NEWS FOR HOMEMAKERS

When Your Home Freezer Stops

If your home freezer stops running because of power outages, you can take several steps to keep food from spoiling. They are:

1. Keep the freezer closed.
2. Move the food to a locker plant.
3. Add dry ice if you can get it. (To prvent burns when handling dry ice, wear gloves.)
4. Can the food if necessary. (This would not be possible if the electrical power was off for any length of time.)

The most important thing to do when your freezer is off is to keep the door closed. Do not go in and out to check on the food. Only open the door to add dry ice or to take food out that the family requires for meals. Try to find out from your power company approximately how long your electrical current will be off. If it is possible to get an estimate from the utility company, then you can decide what course of action you must take.

When the freezer is closed, food will usually stay frozen in a full loaded freezer for two days. In a freezer with less than half a load, food will not stay frozen for more than a day.

How long the food in your freezer will stay depend on:

1. The amount of food in the freezer - A full freezer will stay cold many hours longer than a freezer only a quarter or half full.
2. The kind of food - A freezer full of meat will not warm up as fast as a freezer full of baked food.
3. The temperature of the food - The colder the food, the longer it will stay frozen.
4. The freezer itself - A well insulated freezer will keep food frozen much longer than one with little insulation. (This is a very important factor to check if you are purchasing a freezer.)
5. The size of the freezer. The large the freezer, the longer the food will stay frozen.

If you know that your electrical power will be off for an extended length of time, you should consider moving your frozen food to a locker plant. There is a locker plant in Dillwyn, Virginia and one in Lynchburg, Virginia that will store frozen foods for a short length of time. If you should need this information, you can obtain it from our office or from the Town Office.

Another alternative when the electrical power is off for an extended period of time is the use of dry ice. 25 pounds of dry ice will hold the temperature of a half-full 10-cubic food freezer below freezing for two to three days. Food in a fully loaded freezer will stay frozen for three to four days if you put the dry ice in as soon after the freezer goes off as possible. Use 50 pounds of dry ice for a 20 cubic-foot freezer. Put heavy cardboard directly on the packages of frozen food and then put the dry ice on top of the cardboard.

Another possibility for saving frozen food is the use of a stand-by generator. If the power failure is frequent or lasts for a long period of time, the stand-by generator may be a wise investment. Many people, especially dairy farmers, have stand-by generators and maybe would allow you to borrow one for a period of time to get your freezer temperature back to zero degrees F.

Some of you asked last week should you cover your freezer. By all means, yes. You may cover a freezer with blankets, quilts or some other type of covering. Be sure that you do not cover the air vent openings on the freezer. This is very important because should the power come on unexpectedly, ventilation would be needed for the operation of the freezer.

Next week I shall continue discussing what to do when your home freezer is without power. I will discuss in detail how to handle various types of foods that have thawed or partially thawed.

Should you have a homemaking question or problem, you may call or write the Appomattox County Extension Office. It is always a pleasure to hear from you, answer your questions and help you with your problems. You may reach us at 352-8244 or write us at P.O. Box 488, Appomattox, Virginia 24522.

Have a good week, homemakers!

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Minnie Pearl's Plenty for 20

½ cup cooking oil
2½ cups chopped onion
2½ cups chopped green pepper
2 cloves garlic, minced
3 pounds ground beef
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
3-16 oz. cans tomatoes
3 12-oz. cans whole-kernal corn
3 cups sliced, pitted, black olives
1½ pounds medium noodles - cooked and drained
3 cups grated sharp cheddar cheese

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Lightly grease two 9 x 13-inch baking dishes

Heat cooking oil and saute onion, green pepper and garlic in very large saucepan or Dutch oven. Add ground beef. Continue cooking until browned. Add remaining ingredients except cheese. Pour into prepared baking dishes. Cover and bake about 45 minutes. Top with grated cheese. Bake 15 minutes more. Makes 20 servings.

NOTE: This recipe can be divided.

Paige Nolen went to a luncheon for Minnie Pearl in Nashville, Tennessee last year and brought this recipe back to Hazel Saunders, her neighbor.

One of the big reasons our rates are lower is the kind of people we insure.

Most of our business is with the people of rural Virginia; statistically, the people least likely to have an automobile accident.

This simple fact has helped us to keep our rates down when others have increased drastically.
